

Position: Donor Engagement Volunteer

Dying With Dignity Canada (DWDC) is the national human-rights charity committed to improving quality of dying, protecting end-of-life rights, and helping people across Canada avoid unwanted suffering.

We're in search of Donor Engagement Volunteers to call our donors and thank them for their ongoing support!

Does this sound like you?

- Passion for end-of-life choice and patient rights
- Wonderful phone etiquette and rapport-building skills
- A self-starter who can volunteer from home at least 2 hours per week
- Comfortable learning new computer programs
- Access to reliable internet, a laptop or smartphone (with a speaker and microphone)
- Available for a mandatory training session
- Existing knowledge about the work of DWDC, or willingness to learn

If so, we're offering:

- A brand new, easy-to-use platform that automatically dials and leaves voicemails with the click of a button
- Comprehensive training on how to make the calls
- Options for weekly shifts so you can call when it's convenient for you
- Fun challenges (including occasional prizes for our top callers!)

Our callers often tell us how rewarding the experience is, and we're excited to open up the opportunity to more volunteers.
